Thou see'st not, what thou see'st, then doe not say
That this is Hee, who calls a lump of clay
Without the Soul, a Man. Thou seest no more.
Nay, but the Shadow of that lump, what store
Of guists and graces what perfections rare
Among 1000 persons scattered are
Gather in One, Imagine it to bee
His Shadowes substance: And, then say, tis hee

A Down-right Dealer I:V:

I shame to see, what (heer) I see, and say
That this is Hee, who fast and loose doth plaie,
With Piety A Soul full of Deceipt,
Closed in a Lump of Clay, the World to Cheat,
In whom the Scatterd Boyls of Errors base,
Of full 1000 Sectaries take place,
Gather'ed in One. And, thus, if thou will see
Heresies Substance, in a Shade tis Hee.
